Covid-19 : IkiBox air purifiers, an innovative solution for air treatment

IkiBox air purifiers use an innovative technology to clean up indoor air up to 99.999%, in less than 10 minutes. They are efficient against airborne contamination and allow to drastically reduce airborne transmission of coronavirus.

While we spend on average three quarters of our life, inside air building is 5 to 90 times more polluted than outside*.

Banyan Health company has developed revolutionary air purifiers that use plasma-catalysis to clean the air without using filters and ozone emissions.

These top of the range devices are qualified for medical use and are efficient against the majority of air pollutants like:

viruses (including covid-19), bacteria, mushrooms, allergens, chemical products, smoke, odours...

Our devices are commercialized through France from Lyon, the French IkiBox headquarter, and from Nantes too.

Clean up 99.9999% of indoor air in 10 minutes

Microorganisms

Microbes, viruses and bacteria...

Particles and aerosols

Mould, asbestos...

Odours and allergens

Pollens, dust mites...

Chemical pollutants

Formaldehydes, radon, volatile organic compounds (VOCs)...

"Ikibox air purifiers neutralise bacteria and viruses present in the air and their efficiency against the corona virus has been proved in the laboratory (Mers-Coronavirus test 2014).

We feel that our devices could be a powerful ally for health professionals in this fight against the Covid-19, and because of that we lend about twenty devices to Paris and Valence hospitals, but also one to a retirement house based in Nantes. This unprecedented crisis gave a sense to the problem that Ikibox solutions are answering : the security against airborne pathogens transmission".
